

I encourage the FCC to deny the Consumer Banker's Association's request to allow telemarketing calls to previous customers on the Indiana Do-Not-Call list. If I wish to receive additional services from a bank with which I have previously done business, I will contact that bank myself - but until such time, I would prefer to be left alone. I opted onto the the Do-Not-Call list shortly after it was implemented. Since that time, I have enjoyed a near-100% reduction in unsolicited calls, and have appreciated the privacy and the peace it has afforded me. I do hope that this will continue.
